SENATOR REED CALLS COMMITTEE FOR CONFERENCE

CANCELS SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS FOR THE NEXT TWO WEEKS

PERSONS PROMINENT IN ILLINOIS POLITICAL AND BUSINESS FIELDS SUBPOENAED

St. Louis, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, chairman of the senatorial investigation committee, has summoned a meeting of the committee for Monday in Chicago. The senator refused to announce the purpose of the meeting, although he did not deny that the meeting was for an investigation in Indiana for the past week. Reed left here to fill a speaking date, but has cancelled speaking engagements in behalf of Missouri democratic candidates for the next two weeks. He is expected to speak in Joplin, Mo., today and probably will go to Chicago then.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Persons prominent in Illinois political and business fields have been subpoenaed to testify before the senate investigating committee, when it convenes here Monday, indicating that the session has been called for further investigation of Illinois political campaigns rather than to probe the Indiana Klan situation.

Among the persons ordered subpoenaed, only five names were made public. They are James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., largest department store in Chicago; Clement Studebaker, multi-millionaire utility man, associate of Samuel Insull; Mrs. James F. Morrison, wealthy hotel operator; E. J. Davis, president of the Chicago Better Government Association; George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon League.

Studebaker was named with Insull at the former investigation of Illinois politics in Chicago in connection with testimony showing Insull had contributed extensively to the campaign of Colonel Frank L. Smith, successful candidate in the senatorial republican primary. Safford through the official channels of his Anti-Saloon League has vigorously defended Colonel Smith against the attacks of his opponents. He has called upon all dry voters of both parties to support Smith in order to defeat the democratic candidate, George E. Brennan, who is making the race for the senate on a "dripping wet" platform. Safford has been active in campaigning against Hugh S. Magill, an independent republican, who entered the senatorial race since the last session of the investigating committee, despite the fact Magill has pledged himself to support the 18th amendment. Magill is waging his fight against Smith largely on the evidence of Smith's alleged "slush fund."

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Hincklin Yates, secretary of the senate investigating committee, today presented U. S. Marshal Palmer Anderson with a large group of subpoenas to be served in connection with the committee's forthcoming hearing to open here Monday.

Names of the persons to be subpoenaed have not yet been made public and Anderson said it was impossible for him to say whether the list gave evidence of the committee's intention to investigate the Indiana situation. Hincklin Yates, secretary of the committee, said he could see no reason for believing an investigation of Indiana politics would come up at this meeting.

"I am inclined to believe," he said, "that any session that would be devoted to a probe into the Indiana situation would be held in Indianapolis. I can see no reason for believing this meeting has anything to do with Indiana."

STEPHENSON AND HIS SECRETS ARE BACK IN HIS CELL

FORMER DRAGON'S INTENTION OF "TELLING ALL" DID NOT MATERIALIZE

PLACED BEFORE GRAND JURY. REPORTED HE REFUSED TO GIVE TESTIMONY

By GERALD P. OVERTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—D. C. Stephenson was back in his cell in the state penitentiary today and with him were the secrets he was supposed to tell of Klan domination of the state government.

A new list of witnesses was called before the Marion county grand jury investigating the charges of a group of editors that corruption prevailed in high state offices while Stephenson was head of the Klan.

Stephenson's reported intention, however, of "telling all," did not materialize. He was brought yesterday from the prison, where he is serving a life term for murder and placed on the witness stand before the grand jury. It was reported he refused to give testimony to bear out the charges. Later, he was called as a witness in a court suit but again he stood his constitutional grounds and refused to testify.

Prosecutor William H. Remy said testimony would be sought from other witnesses today but did not name them.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—Governor Ed Jackson today issued a sweeping denial to statements of Floyd Christian, Noblesville attorney, connecting the governor's name with a $5,000 check from D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon.

The governor said any statements that he had received a check for that amount from Stephenson or any gifts or campaign contributions from him were "absolutely false."

Christian's statement was given out by Thomas Adams, leader of the committee of editors investigating state politics, and Christian at his home in Noblesville, confirmed the fact he had given Adams the statement.

The Marion county grand jury, which yesterday had Stephenson before it for an hour in the inquiry into Adams' charges of corruption in state and city politics under Stephenson's influence, today was to continue its investigation with the calling of new witnesses.

Although reported ready to tell all and make revelations of corruption that would make the state rock from one end to another if given the opportunity to appear in open court, Stephenson failed to deliver when taken into superior court yesterday.

The former dragon was called to testify in the bankruptcy proceedings against the Hoosier Tailor, Inc.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—Dismissal of the appeal of George Dale, Muncie, Ind., editor, from a jail sentence for contempt of court, was sought in a motion transmitted to the United States supreme court today by Attorney General Gilliom of Indiana.

Gilliom's motion held that the United States supreme court had no jurisdiction over the issues at stake when Dale's appeal was before the Indiana supreme court.

Dale, who for two years waged ceaseless warfare on the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, was sentenced to jail for contempt of the Delaware county court at Muncie because he asserted the court was controlled by the Klan.

CHICAGO IN CAMPAIGN TO TAME GANGS

SPECIAL POLICE SQUADS RAKE CITY FOR BEER RUNNERS AND HOODLUMS

LATTER HAVE KILLED 26 PERSONS IN WAR FOR SUPREMACY IN ALCOHOL TRADE

Chicago, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Another campaign to rid Chicago of gang warfare was under way here today with the announcement by Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins that a half dozen police captains had been installed in charge of squads which are to rake the city for beer runners and hoodlums, who have killed 26 persons in their war for supremacy in the alcohol trade here.

The six captains are to have charge of 90 special squads, with 90 automobiles, which will cover assigned zones and their duties as ordered by the chief are to "run gangsters out of Chicago forever."

Captain John Stege, chief of the crime squad, has been relieved of his regular duties to take charge of the new police detail.

Collins ordered the squads to "shoot on sight" any known gangster caught with a gun in his hands. A list of 144 gang chiefs and their lieutenants has been prepared and given to each captain.

Meanwhile police continued the investigation into the machine gun killing of Hymie Weiss, alleged gang leader, and his lieutenant, Patrick Murray. This shooting caused the recent flare up against gang war.

Rumors that Weiss had been double crossed by his lieutenant were heard at police headquarters today. A witness whose name was not disclosed told police he saw Patrick Murray, alleged Weiss aide and one of the men killed in Monday afternoon's gang shooting, designate Weiss as the man to kill to those who shot Weiss down with a machine gun.

Then Murray was made a target by the assailants as he started to run, the witness said.

Police called on the courts to aid them by refusing to issue writs of habeas corpus for men held on shooting charges. As a result Sam Peller, alleged bodyguard for Weiss, and Ben Jacobs were still in police custody, although their attorneys asked their release on writs after they had been in police hands 48 hours. Both were shot down during the Monday afternoon flare up. "They are both shot, therefore it must be presumed they were in a shooting," Chief Justice William Lindsay of the criminal court, said in turning down the plea for release.

to slow up the investigation of Indiana politics, Thomas Adams, Vincennes editor, charged today.

Adams, chairman of committee of republican editors investigating political activities of D. C. Stephenson, former Klan dragon, again wired Senator Reed of Missouri, asking him to have his committee take up the Indiana inquiry immediately.

He also defied Clyde Walb, republican state chairman, to join him in requesting Reed and his committee to lift the charges to the bottom.

"It is apparent from startling interference with the work of our probe committee, that the Reed investigating committee should help us probe into the vitals of this deep seated political controversy," Adams wired Reed. "The masked organization which controls Indiana politics is using its power to hinder our probe."

Adams refused to elaborate on his charges, saying "the information would be placed before the proper authorities."

Walb as state chairman of the republican party in Indiana, has condemned the Adams investigation, asserting it was backed "by international bankers" seeking to defeat Senators Watson and Robinson in their race for return to the senate.

FATE OF TWO TRAPPERS HAS BEEN SOLVED

UPPER MICHIGAN PENINSULA IS NOW BEING SCoured FOR THE BODIES

ROY NUNN HELD BY AUTHORITIES, IMPLICATED BY FARMER'S TESTIMONY

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 14.—(UP)—With the mystery of the disappearance of Emil Skoglund and Arvid Erickson, game wardens, practically solved, the woods of the upper Michigan peninsula were alive with hundreds of persons as the search for the bodies of the two men was continued with renewed interest.

At Marquette, authorities are holding Roy Nunn, who, according to Joe Countis, farmer, living near Marquette, shot and killed the two wardens, after they attempted to arrest him for "headlight" deer hunting.

Nunn was taken into custody yesterday after Countis had told members of the searching party what he knew about the shooting. He explained he had been in hiding in the woods near here since the day of the shooting. According to Countis' story, the two wardens approached the men while they were hunting deer illegally near Gwinn on Sept. 29. He explained the wardens, after examining the layout and finding he had no gun, released him. Countis said he then started up a trail in the woods and while rounding a turn, looked back. He said he saw that Nunn had gotten the upper hand and had the officers covered with a rifle.

A few minutes later, according to Countis' story, he heard a number of shots, but explained he did not return to see what was going on. Hundreds of persons, after hearing of the arrest of Nunn, joined the searching party today and it is planned to drag a river and lake near the scene of the shooting in the hopes of finding the bodies.

Authorities refuse to divulge any information they may have gotten from Nunn through questioning, but it is believed the bodies will be recovered today.

PERSHING MAY BE HONORARY LEGION HEAD

POST OF ACTIVE COMMANDER MAY GO TO AN ACTIVE WORKER OF LEGION

PROGRAM FAILS TO MEET FULL SUPPORT OF ALL DELEGATES

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—Conflict over selection of a new national commander occupied the delegates today at the eighth annual American Legion convention.

It was decided at caucuses of leaders early this morning that General John J. Pershing, commander of the expeditionary forces, should be chosen honorary commander for life, but that the post of active commander should go to one of the active workers of the Legion.

The program failed to meet the full support of all the delegates and there were possibilities that it will encounter opposition when presented to the convention tomorrow. Thus far, however, convention leaders have been able to preserve peace.

The midnight conferees swung behind Colonel "Steamboat" J. Monaghan Johnson, popular Legion leader of South Carolina and they intend to put him over at the election tomorrow.

Other leading candidates were Howard Savage, Illinois; E. E. S. Spafford, New York; Thomas Avery Lee, Kansas; Jay Williams, South Dakota, and Wilder S. Metcalfe, Kansas. The ultimate contest will be between Johnson and Savage, leaders predicted.

Meantime the delegates were having a good time. It was said no one who has a Legion card could be arrested, but the police were stationed at every down town corner to see that no fatalities result from the hilarious reunions of the former buddies.

For the second consecutive year, the medal emblematic of the band championship of the Legion was awarded by judges to the Monaghan Post, Sioux City, Ia., at the morning convention session.

Columbus, O., band was given second place and the Beaver Dam, Wis., band third.

Fort Dodge, Ia., drill team was awarded the prize in the drill contest.

The convention decided unanimously to hold the 1928 convention in San Antonio, Tex. Daniel Moody, governor-elect of Texas, in requesting the convention to be awarded to San Antonio, said the hotel men had promised to hold down rates and that civic organizations had already started preparing for the meeting.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—An extensive program of aviation development including many of the ideas of Colonel "Billy" Mitchell, air ace, who criticized the present air administration, was submitted to the American Legion convention here today.

Ten resolutions urging that adequate air protection be given all important American cities, co-ordination of air defense into a single department, with secretaries of equal importance for land, sea and air forces and development of air units in the reserve were suggested by the aeronautics committee.

The fundamentals of Mitchell's plan for air service development, which caused such a furore last year, were accepted in the unanimous committee report.

8 BANDITS SHOOT AND KILL DRIVER OF MAIL TRUCK

3 OTHERS WOUNDED IN BARRAGE OF MACHINE GUN FIRE

REGISTERED MAIL VALUED AT $200,000 STOLEN AT ELIZABETH, N. J.

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 14.—Eight bandits, riding down on a United States mail truck, behind a barrage of machine gun fire here today, shot and killed the driver of the truck, wounded three others and escaped with registered mail and payroll consignments, the value of which may total $200,000.

The citizens of northern New Jersey, aroused by the spectacular ferocity of the crime, which is one of a series of murderous holdups and assaults in the last two months, turned out in force this afternoon to exact vengeance on the killers.

News of the robbery was spread by radio, telegraph and telephone, and in addition to every policeman in a score of cities that could be spared, private citizens armed with rifles and revolvers went through the highways in automobiles looking for members of the band.

Members of the police departments of Newark, Jersey City and Elizabeth were aided by police and volunteers from every town in the vicinity. Business houses were closed and men with shot guns posted themselves at every vantage point.

With utter disregard for human life, the bandits let loose their bullets in every direction. The machine gun, a light Thompson model fired from the shoulder, was swept from side to side, shattering windows in houses and saloons and endangering a dozen or more pedestrians in the vicinity. One passerby was among the wounded.

The dead and injured were: John Ense, Elizabeth, driver of the truck, killed.

Patrick S. Quinn, his helper, bullets in the leg, arm and hand.

Jacob Christman, motorcycle policeman, bullets in both legs and arms, seriously injured.

Charles Decatur, Elizabeth, a passerby, bullet in the left arm, not serious.

Christman is a cousin of Gertrude Ederle, channel swimmer.

The mail truck was carrying a heavy consignment of payroll money and other registered mail from the federal reserve bank in New York to banks in Elizabeth. Christman was assigned to help guard the shipment and moved alongside the truck on his motorcycle.

The exact amount taken has not been checked up and some estimates placed it over $400,000. The manager of the Elizabethport National Bank said about $160,000 consigned to his bank alone had been taken. It was the payroll of the Singer Sewing Machine plant here.

Another payroll consigned to the People's National Bank contained $16,500. Other banks in the vicinity said valuable shipments were on their way to them.

Believing that the gang is composed of adherents of "Bum" Rodgers and "Killer" Cuniffe, police have been trailing their associates for weeks with but little success.

Two suspects in today's robbery were arrested. They were Lee McRitchie and William Syms, both of Elizabeth. Both were out on bail charged with complicity in recent robberies, McRitchie with the hold-up to a Staten Island ferry, and Syms with the Meek Chemical robbery.

SENATORS TAKE ISSUE WITH DAWES' TALK

DAWES CHARGED THE CORRUPT WANTED PRIMARY SYSTEM REPEALED

"FELLOWS BUYING NOMINATIONS WANT PRIMARY SCRAPPED," SAYS SEN. BORAH

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 14.—Senators Borah, republican, Idaho, and Johnson, republican, California, today defended the direct primary system, following Vice President Dawes' Philadelphia attack on it and charged that the corrupt wanted the system repealed.

"The fellows who want to buy nominations," were said by Johnson to be the chief promoters of a national political campaign to scrap primaries and return the old convention system. Borah said the idea is to make "corruption safe in public offices."

Johnson said the convention system facilitated the buying of nominations, but the primary plan rendered the purchase more difficult.

Exposure under the primary system of heavy expenditures was more likely, he held, pointing to revelations of huge campaign funds in Illinois and Pennsylvania. The expenditures in these states, he said, were "repugnant and abhorrent."

He suggested there was no difference between a public utility corporation corruption and expenditures by a member of the cabinet.

Discussion of a cabinet member's expenditures, however, was "treason," he said sarcastically.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, another strong primary supporter, is going into Pennsylvania this week to campaign for William B. Wilson, democrat, opposing Representative William S. Vare for the senate seat now held by George Wharton Pepper. His campaigning for a democrat is causing some apprehension as to his chances of being elected chairman of the judiciary committee, succeeding the late Senator Cummins, Iowa.

"It is remarkable that every individual who spends money illegitimately in the primaries, every individual who profits thereby and every individual belonging to factions which seek to spend money illegitimately are in full cry against the direct primary," Johnson said. "The very men guilty of venality in endeavoring to purchase an electorate are selecting its own nominees."

London, Oct. 14.—(UP)—A telegram from Rome has summoned Dr. Ferdinand Sauerbruch, an eminent Bavarian surgeon, to consult with other specialists about an operation on Premier Mussolini of Italy. It was reported today in a Daily Express dispatch from Geneva, which quoted the Berne newspaper Bund.

Dr. Sauerbruch has obtained three weeks leave of absence from the University of Munich, where he is professor of surgery, to go to Rome, the Daily Express said.

PERSHING MAY BE HONORARY LEGION HEAD

POST OF ACTIVE COMMANDER MAY GO TO AN ACTIVE WORKER OF LEGION

PROGRAM FAILS TO MEET FULL SUPPORT OF ALL DELEGATES

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—Conflict over selection of a new national commander occupied the delegates today at the eighth annual American Legion convention.

It was decided at caucuses of leaders early this morning that General John J. Pershing, commander of the expeditionary forces, should be chosen honorary commander for life, but that the post of active commander should go to one of the active workers of the Legion.

The program failed to meet the full support of all the delegates and there were possibilities that it will encounter opposition when presented to the convention tomorrow. Thus far, however, convention leaders have been able to preserve peace.

The midnight conferees swung behind General "Steamboat" J. Morgan Johnson, popular Legion leader of South Carolina and they intend to put him over at the election tomorrow.

Other leading candidates were Howard Savage, Illinois; E. E. S. Spafford, New York; Thomas Avory Lee, Kansas; Jay Williams, South Dakota, and Wilder S. Metcalfe, Kansas. The ultimate contest will be between Johnson and Savage, leaders predicted.

Meantime the delegates were having a good time. It was said no one who has a Legion card could be arrested, but the police were stationed at every down town corner to see that no fatalities result from the hilarious reunions of the former buddies.

For the second consecutive year, the medal emblematic of the band championship of the Legion was awarded by judges to the Monaghan Post, Sioux City, Ia., at the morning convention session.

Columbus, O., band was given second place and the Beaver Dam, Wis., band third.

Fort Dodge, Ia., drill team was awarded the prize in the drill contest.

The convention decided unanimously to hold the 1928 convention in San Antonio, Tex. Daniel Moody, governor-elect of Texas, in requesting the convention to be awarded to San Antonio, said the hotel men had promised to hold down rates and that civic organizations had already started preparing for the meeting.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—An extensive program of aviation development including many of the ideas of Colonel "Billy" Mitchell, air ace, who criticized the present air administration, was submitted to the American Legion convention here today.

Ten resolutions urging that adequate air protection be given all important American cities, co-ordination of air defense into a single department, with secretaries of equal importance for land, sea and air forces and development of air units in the reserve were suggested by the aeronautics committee.

The fundamentals of Mitchell's plan for air service development, which caused such a furor last year, were accepted in the unanimous committee report.

8 BANDITS SHOOT AND KILL DRIVER OF MAIL TRUCK

3 OTHERS WOUNDED IN BARRAGE OF MACHINE GUN FIRE

REGISTERED MAIL VALUED AT $200,000 STOLEN AT ELIZABETH, N. J.

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 14.—Eight bandits, riding down on a United States mail truck, behind a barrage of machine gun fire here today, shot and killed the driver of the truck, wounded three others and escaped with registered mail and payroll consignments, the value of which may total $200,000.

The citizens of northern New Jersey, aroused by the spectacular ferocity of the crime, which is one of a series of murderous holdups and assaults in the last two months, turned out in force this afternoon to exact vengeance on the killers.

News of the robbery was spread by radio, telegraph and telephone, and in addition to every policeman in a score of cities that could be spared, private citizens armed with rifles and revolvers went through the highways in automobiles looking for members of the band.

Members of the police departments of Newark, Jersey City and Elizabeth were aided by police and volunteers from every town in the vicinity. Business houses were closed and men with shot guns posted themselves at every vantage point.

With utter disregard for human life, the bandits let loose their bullets in every direction. The machine gun, a light Thompson model fired from the shoulder, was swept from side to side, shattering windows in houses and saloons and endangering a dozen or more pedestrians in the vicinity. One passerby was among the wounded.

The dead and injured were: John Ense, Elizabeth, driver of the truck, killed.

Patrick S. Quinn, his helper, bullets in the leg, arm and hand.

Jacob Christman, motorcycle policeman, bullets in both legs and arms, seriously injured.

Charles Decatur, Elizabeth, a passerby, bullet in the left arm, not serious.

Christman is a cousin of Gertrude Ederle, channel swimmer.

The mail truck was carrying a heavy consignment of payroll money and other registered mail from the federal reserve bank in New York to banks in Elizabeth. Christman was assigned to help guard the shipment and moved alongside the truck on his motorcycle.

The exact amount taken has not been checked up and some estimates placed it over $400,000. The manager of the Elizabethport National Bank said about $160,000 consigned to his bank alone had been taken. It was the payroll of the Singer Sewing Machine plant here.

Another payroll consigned to the People's National Bank contained $165,000. Other banks in the vicinity said valuable shipments were on their way to them.

Believing that the gang is composed of adherents of "Bum" Rodgers and "Killer" Cuniffe, police have been trailing their associates for weeks with but little success.

Two suspects in today's robbery were arrested. They were Lee McRitchie and William Syms, both of Elizabeth. Both were out on bail charged with complicity in recent robberies, McRitchie with the hold-up to a Staten Island ferry, and Syms with the Meck Chalkley robbery.

stockholders, succeeding A. J. Norrick, who is returning to Minneapolis. Frederickson also will have charge of the Lake Lillian Echo.

SENATORS TAKE ISSUE WITH DAWES' TALK

DAWES CHARGED THE CORRUPT WANTED PRIMARY SYSTEM REPEALED

"FELLOWS BUYING NOMINATIONS WANT PRIMARY SCRAPPED," SAYS SEN. BORAH

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 14.—Senators Borah, republican, Idaho, and Johnson, republican, California, today defended the direct primary system, following Vice President Dawes' Philadelphia attack on it and charged that the corrupt wanted the system repealed.

"The fellows who want to buy nominations," were said by Johnson to be the chief promoters of a national political campaign to scrap primaries and return the old convention system. Borah said the idea is to make "corruption safe in public offices."

Johnson said the convention system facilitated the buying of nominations, but the primary plan rendered the purchase more difficult.

Exposure under the primary system of heavy expenditures was more likely, he held, pointing to revelations of huge campaign funds in Illinois and Pennsylvania. The expenditures in these states, he said, were "repugnant and abhorrent."

He suggested there was no difference between a public utility corporation corruption and expenditures by a member of the cabinet.

Discussion of a cabinet member's expenditures, however, was "treason," he said sarcastically.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, another strong primary supporter, is going into Pennsylvania this week to campaign for William B. Wilson, democrat, opposing Representative William S. Vare for the senate seat now held by George Wharton Pepper. His campaigning for a democrat is causing some apprehension as to his chances of being elected chairman of the judicial committee, succeeding the late Senator Cummins, Iowa.

"It is remarkable that every individual who spends money illegitimately in the primaries, every individual who profits thereby and every individual belonging to factions which seek to spend money illegitimately are in full cry against the direct primary," Johnson said. "The very men guilty of venality in endeavoring to purchase an electorate are selecting its own nominees."

BRITISH COAL MINERS TAKE DECISIVE STEP

London, Oct. 14.—(UP)—The striking miners of Great Britain today voted to withdraw their safety men from the mines, thus bringing the walkout to its most critical stage.

At an executive meeting, the representative vote of the miners on the proposition to ratify the recent South Wales resolution was 460,150 to 284,434.

WISCONSIN POLICE CHIEFS' ASSOCIATION

Milwaukee, Oct. 14.—(UP)—George T. Prim, chief of police of Appleton, today started his third term as president of the Wisconsin Police Chiefs' association, following his reelection to that office at noon today.

All other officers of the association were reelected and Racine was chosen as the next convention city.

JURY DECLARES IT ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Northfield, Minn., Oct. 14.—(UP)—A coroner's jury here at noon today returned a verdict of accidental death in the killing of Phil Ryan, 75, who was struck by a freight train here last night. The body was badly mangled. Witnesses testified that Ryan walked in front of the engine, apparently unaware of its approach.

DELINQUENT TAXES

It is with pride that the taxpayer of Crow Wing county can survey work done by his county officers and the board of county commissioners. The wise provision of setting aside a fund to reduce bonded and other indebtedness has now paid completely for our new court house, and in a few years the indebtedness on the old court house will have been cleaned up.

The budget system is used in roadwork and other items of expense. Delinquent taxes are kept to a minimum point. The rate in Crow Wing county is not so high when compared with counties to the north of us.

Take, for instance, the facts compiled by the State Forestry Department and gleaned from their findings.

Delinquent taxes in ten selected townships in Northern Minnesota have been the subject of an economic survey by the State Forestry Department and they show some surprising facts.

The problem is one that is attracting increasing attention, in view of the 3,500,000 acres now delinquent in the cutover country; in view of the experience of Michigan where several million acres are in default and forty counties are disintegrating except as the state contributes to hold them together, and in view of the pending Amendment No. 2 which has a bearing on the taxation of cutover lands.

The ten townships selected for the survey, and thank heaven they are not in Crow Wing county, have a total area of 215,680 acres, not quite one-half of the area of the county in which they are situated. In these ten townships the delinquent taxes for 1925 come to $60,513.

It is a calamity when one considers the effect of delinquent taxes. The load is shifted to the tax-paying land on the tax list and is equivalent to an extra assessment of 6 per cent.

There are 414 abandoned farms in the ten townships. They were not jackrabbit farmers, either, but bona fide settlers. They had cleared 13,440 acres, which is better than 30 acres to the farm. They had buildings valued at $417,000. That is an average of more than a thousand dollars of improvements. The clearings are growing up to jack pine and aspen. More than half the cleared land is already reverting to forest. The buildings are going to ruin, many of them are already falling to pieces.

Clearing in that locality is said to average $40 an acre, so that the clearing represents an investment of $537,000. The abandoned farms with the cost of clearing and the cost of the buildings are a total loss of more than a million dollars.

That particular land, the forestry department believes, is of a type where farming was foredoomed. The attempt to make farms of it was a tragic mistake. They urge, as the department of agriculture has urged and as every school of conservation has urged for years, that there should be a classification of lands in Minnesota so that such disastrous mistakes could be prevented.

The tragedy of the 414 farm failures in ten towns is half the story. What about the other farms in the same district, the farms who have good agricultural land and who have half a chance of pulling through by hard work and intelligent effort! What about them!

What becomes of the other farmers when their tax load is doubled! With rates in the neighborhood of a hundred mills, what will be the effect of doubling the tax load! That is the situation they are facing. Either the towns and the country are crumbling into insolvency or the remaining land must carry double loads.

Amendment No. 2 is designed to open a door to correct the situation. It won't help the four hundred settlers who tried to farm land that will raise no crop but trees. It will have a material bearing on the other farmers who have their half a chance. Legislation in accordance with the amendment will hold on the tax list forest bearing land that is now slipping and will bring back on the tax list, if it works out, the forest bearing land now delinquent. It is noted that the lands covered by this survey were bought for settlement and actually improved. It is the settler who is first frozen out. It is the settler on neighboring land who is most heavily laden.

THREE cases drag their weary way across the front page of newspapers, the Russell Scott murder case, the Aimee Semple McPherson evangelist kidnapping case, and the Hall-Mills murder investigation.

QUEEN of Rumania clasped her son to her bosom and a reconciliation was effected with Prince Carol. Some other Mas would have first used a shingle.

FRENCH feeling is easily aroused, one way or another. Dough-boys are taking a chance on the reception of their convention in Paris.

OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE

Preparations for Convention at Brainerd Rapidly Assuming Shape

HI-Y CLUB ACTIVE

Convention to be Held Nov. 12, 13, and 14, 150 Boys Expected From Twin Cities

Plans for the Older Boys' conference in Brainerd during November are rapidly assuming definite form, with members of the Hi-Y club taking charge of many of the preliminary duties. The conference will be held in Brainerd on November 12, 13 and 14 attracting boys and young men from the central part of the state.

Loyal P. Thomas, new state boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., visited the city on Tuesday evening, bringing before the Hi-Y club at their bean feed that evening an enthusiasm formed by the responses to the conferences on the part of neighboring cities. He reports that St. Paul and Minneapolis will be divided between Brainerd and Austin, where the southern Minnesota conference will be held, with many of the twin city boys asking to come to Brainerd. About 150 are expected from the twin cities, half of whom will be employed boys and the remainder high school boys. Duluth is planning to send from 50 to 75, and other towns working up delegations are Cloquet, Detroit, Bemidji, St. Cloud, Fergus Falls, Alexandria, Glenwood, Montevideo, and Elbow Lake.

The chief speaker of the conference will be A. J. "Dad" Elliott.

regional student secretary for the central region Y. M. C. A., who was an All-Western end when playing on the Northwestern university football team in 1900 and 1901. He will also address the conference banquet on Saturday, November 13, at the high school gymnasium. There will be a few tickets available for local men to attend this banquet.

The three days of the conference will be filled with challenging thoughts centered around the conference theme, "The quest of the best," interspersed with songs, fellowship and fun.

THERE are many ways to treat a cold in the head, but only one DIRECT way, and that is with vapors that can be inhaled.

The easiest and most satisfying way to get these vapors is to sniff a little Vicks VapoRub well up the nose, or melt a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale.

The medicated vapors reach immediately into every corner of the air passages, soothing and healing with every breath.

For other forms of cold troubles just rub Vicks over the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the body heat which releases these vapors.

FRIGIDAIRE provides greater food space than other electric refrigerators of equal size. This is because the highly efficient and economical frost coil, an exclusive Frigidaire feature, occupies less space than the brine tank previously used, permitting greater food storage capacity in a cabinet of any given size. Larger supplies of perishable foods can be carried at one time.

Greater food capacity, quieter operation, freedom from vibration, lower operating cost, a wider range of models, the more precise engineering and manufacturing methods of General Motors, greater beauty of design, proven dependability in service—these are the things that have made Frigidaire the choice of the overwhelming majority of users of electric refrigerators.

This is because the highly efficient and economical frost coil, an exclusive Frigidaire feature, occupies less space than the brine tank previously used, permitting greater food storage capacity in a cabinet of any given size. Larger supplies of perishable foods can be carried at one time.

Greater food capacity, quieter operation, freedom from vibration, lower operating cost, a wider range of models, the more precise engineering and manufacturing methods of General Motors, greater beauty of design, proven dependability in service—these are the things that have made Frigidaire the choice of the overwhelming majority of users of electric refrigerators.

FANS HOWL OVER PASSES FORCED ON RUTH

STOVE LEAGUE HAS A TOPIC FOR ALL WINTER

NOT ALL OF RUTH'S PASSES WERE INTENTIONAL, IT IS CLAIMED

4 THEORETIC REMEDIES PROPOSED TO BETTER THE SITUATION

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Oct. 14.—One of the reactions of the 1926 world series was distinctly unpleasant. The many intentional passes given Babe Ruth made the fans howl and provided an involved topic for the hot stove league this winter.

Not all of Ruth's 11 passes were intentional. But when a pitcher did set out to hand Ruth a base on balls the stands did not like it and echoed their boos of disapproval. Most of the fans are opposed to the intentional pass. The baseball managers are in favor of it—within recent years it has come to be as important a part of the defense as the alignment of infielders close to the plate when there is a man on third and only one out.

The customers say that they pay their money to see the hitters given a chance to hit, the managers counter with the contention that an intentional pass is only a gamble anyway and that the pitchers have the right to take a chance. There the argument rests, with Commissioner Landis apparently siding with the managers, since he thus far has taken no official cognizance of the score of plans to do away with or heavily penalize the intentional pass. The plans are ingenious. Following are a few of them, the intentional being considered for purposes of debate that in which the pitcher throws four straight balls:

1. The batter to refuse to go to first, another man substituting for him. Thus if Ruth were up and a man was on first, the big Yankee could not be walked on four pitched balls. Some substitute would go to first, the runner would advance to second and Ruth would still be up. Sooner or later the pitcher would have to get the ball over.

2. The batter to take two bases instead of one.

3. The batter to have his choice of going to first or of waiting to be pitched to.

4. The batter and the man succeeding him in the lineup to go to second and first respectively.

One of the conditions that seems most unfair in the suggestion is that four straight balls are considered an intentional pass. Frequently a pitcher in trying to outguess the batter is unable to get a ball over the plate. That does not signify a purpose to walk the batter, but rather an excusable lack of control.

And yet if the matter of intention were left up to the umpire, there would be protests from the players and fans. The writer's guess is that baseball will see the intentional pass retained as a part of every manager's strategy for at least another season.

SPORT TABLOIDS

Mike Brady is Medalist

Salisbury, L. I.—Mike Brady was the medalist in the qualifying round of the Metropolitan Professional Golfers championship here yesterday with a 144 for 36 holes. Bobby Cruikshank was second, with 145 and MacDonald Smith next with 148. Other low scorers were Johnny Farrell, Tommy Kerrigan, Jimmy Law, Joe Turnesa and Cyril Walker.

Laurel, Md.—W. J. Salmon's Golden Prince set the year's record for long shots when he won the third race here yesterday and paid $386.50 to win on a $2 mutual ticket. The American mutual record was set at Latonia years ago when Wishing Ring paid $1,885.50.

WHEELER HURLS CHARGES AT THE "UNDERWORLD"

CLAIMS IT'S WORKING FOR MAGILL AND GEORGE BRENNAN

CHARGE IS PART OF WHEELER'S APPEAL TO GAIN VOTES FOR SMITH

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 14.—Wayne B. Wheeler, head of the Anti-Saloon League, charged today the "underworld" plans to swing to Hugh S. Magill, dry independent republican in Illinois, "every vote it cannot get for George Brennan, democrat superwet."

The charge was part of an appeal to Illinois republicans to unite on Smith, acknowledged dry. Smith was recently investigated by the senate campaign fund committee, because he had a $125,000 campaign donation from Samuel Insull, Chicago utility magnate.

The league's frank endorsement of Smith was coupled with the observation that the "question is not which is ideal"—Smith or Magill—but which is the better, a dry candidate who can win, or a dry candidate who is bound to lose.

The dry organization held Magill was certain to lose and that votes turned to him would only swell the wet Brennan's chances of winning.

Smith was the second dry to get the league's endorsement in two days.

Senator Wills, republican, Ohio, was the first. The league advised Ohioans to scratch the democrat opponent, former Senator Allee Pomeroy, and the democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

It would not surprise politicians here if Wheeler's next blast was against James Wadsworth of New York. The league deems him a backslider from the dries and favors Frank W. Christian, independent republican dry for the U. S. senate.

The league expresses itself as confident of net dry gains in so far as prohibition is an issue in coming state elections.

UNIVERSITY STUDENT NOW 'FINDS HIMSELF'

Milwaukee, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Joseph A. Weiner, Northwestern university student, who disappeared mysteriously October 7, found himself here last night.

"I must be missing," the young man said, as he came into the central police station here.

A short time before he had gone into a downtown drug store and called the police station by telephone telling them of his predicament.

"How can I tell you my name if I can't remember it," he said to the desk sergeant, after having been asked regarding his name. The police sergeant suggested he take a taxi and come to the station. This he did and the mysterious disappearance was solved.

After being convinced the young man was none other than Joseph Weiner, police took him to Emergency hospital and communicated with relatives in Chicago. He is said to be the son of a wealthy Michigan City, Ind., merchant.

SEEK CHANGE OF NAME OF CAMP

Washington, Oct. 14.—(UP)—A Wisconsin delegation flew here today from the American Legion in Philadelphia to ask Secretary of War Davis to change the name of Camp Sparta, Wis., to Camp Robert Bruce McCoy in honor of the late commander of the Wisconsin national guard. Davis told the delegation he would take the matter under advisement. Senator Lenroot and Mrs. McCoy accompanied the delegation of eight headed by A. A. Peterson, Milwaukee, state adjutant of the Legion.

GEORGE BURNS NAMED THE MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

ANNOUNCED AT OFFICE OF BAN JOHNSON, AMERICAN LEAGUE PRESIDENT

BURNS WAS PRACTICALLY UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF WRITERS' COMMITTEE

Chicago, Oct. 14.—(UP)—George Burns, hard hitting first baseman of the Cleveland Indians was named the most valuable player in the American League, it was announced at the office of Ban Johnson, league president, here today. Burns was practically the unanimous choice of the baseball writers' committee, which balloted on the players. He received 63 out of a possible 64 votes.

Next on the list was Johnny Moser, centerfielder of the Chicago White Sox who received 33 votes. One vote behind him was Herbert Pennock, New York Yankee pitcher.

Burns, who has played on half the teams in the American League during the past 13 years, had a batting average of .358; he drove in 114 runs and scored 97 himself during the past season. He topped his 1926 record by making the record number of two base hits, breaking the record of his manager, Tris Speaker. He hit 34 doubles, three triples and four home runs.

Other players receiving votes here were:

Rice, centerfielder, Washington, 18; Hellmann, rightfielder, Detroit, 16; Manush, centerfielder, Detroit, 16; Simmons, centerfielder, Philadelphia, 16; Grove, pitcher, Philadelphia, 12; Goellin, centerfielder, Washington, 9; Gehrig, first baseman, New York, 7; Lazzeri, second baseman, New York, 7; Falk, leftfielder, Chicago, 6; Fothergill of Detroit, 6; Melillo, second baseman, St. Louis, 6; Rice, rightfielder, St. Louis, 6; Bluege, third baseman, Washington, 5; Todd, first baseman, Boston, 5; Cochrane, catcher, Philadelphia, 4; Meusel, rightfielder, New York, 3; Rigney, shortstop, Boston, 3; Flagstead, rightfielder, Boston, 2; Gerber, shortstop, St. Louis, 2; Zachary, pitcher, St. Louis, 2; Jacobson, centerfielder, Boston, 1.

When the opposing football teams line up for the modern game in Richard Dix's latest Paramount starring effort, "The Quarterback," at the Park on Saturday the roster of players clashing on the gridiron will represent colleges from practically every state in the union.

W. O. McGeehan and William Slavens McNutt's story which Fred Newmeyer directed, concerns an old rivalry between two neighboring schools—State and Colton. Casting Director William Cahill secured the services of enough ex-collegiate stars to make up four elevens, two for an 1899 encounter and two for the present-day sequence.

In addition to Dix, who played with St. Paul Central High and was out for the team at the University of Minnesota before having to leave college, Yost the famous coach of Michigan university was employed to direct the football scenes.

FANS HOWL OVER PASSES FORCED ON RUTH

STOVE LEAGUE HAS A TOPIC FOR ALL WINTER

NOT ALL OF RUTH'S PASSES WERE INTENTIONAL, IT IS CLAIMED

4 THEORETIC REMEDIES PROPOSED TO BETTER THE SITUATION

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) New York, Oct. 14.—One of the reactions of the 1926 world series was distinctly unpleasant. The many intentional passes given Babe Ruth made the fans howl and provided an involved topic for the hot stove league this winter.

Not all of Ruth's 11 passes were intentional. But when a pitcher did set out to hand Ruth a base on balls the stands did not like it and echoed their boos of disapproval. Most of the fans are opposed to the intentional pass. The baseball managers are in favor of it—within recent years it has come to be as important a part of the defense as the alignment of infielders close to the plate when there is a man on third and only one out.

The customers say that they pay their money to see the hitters given a chance to hit, the managers counter with the contention that an intentional pass is only a gamble anyway and that the pitchers have the right to take a chance. There the argument rests, with Commissioner Landis apparently siding with the managers, since he thus far has taken no official cognizance of the score of plans to do away with or heavily penalize the intentional pass. The plans are ingenious. Following are a few of them, the intentional being considered for purposes of debate that in which the pitcher throws four straight balls:

1. The batter to refuse to go to first, another man substituting for him. Thus if Ruth were up and a man was on first, the big Yankee could not be walked on four pitched balls. Some substitute would go to first, the runner would advance to second and Ruth would still be up. Sooner or later the pitcher would have to get the ball over.

2. The batter to take two bases instead of one.

3. The batter to have his choice of going to first or of waiting to be pitched to.

4. The batter and the man succeeding him in the lineup to go to second and first respectively.

One of the conditions that seems most unfair in the suggestion is that four straight balls are considered an intentional pass. Frequently a pitcher in trying to outguess the batter is unable to get a ball over the plate. That does not signify a purpose to walk the batter, but rather an excusable lack of control.

And yet if the matter of intention were left up to the umpire, there would be protests from the players and fans. The writer's guess is that baseball will see the intentional pass retained as a part of every manager's strategy for at least another season.

WHEELER HURLS CHARGES AT THE "UNDERWORLD"

CLAIMS IT'S WORKING FOR MAGGILL AND GEORGE BRENNAN

CHARGE IS PART OF WHEELER'S APPEAL TO GAIN VOTES FOR SMITH

By CARL D. GROAT (United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, Oct. 14.—Wayne B. Wheeler, head of the Anti-Saloon League, charged today the "underworld" plans to swing to Hugh S. Magill, dry independent republican in Illinois, "every vote it cannot get for George Brennan, democrat superwet."

The charge was part of an appeal to Illinois republicans to unite on Smith, acknowledged dry. Smith was recently investigated by the senate campaign fund committee, because he had a $125,000 campaign donation from Samuel Insull, Chicago utility magnate.

The league's frank endorsement of Smith was coupled with the observation that the "question is not which is ideal"—Smith or Magill—but which is the better, a dry candidate who can win, or a dry candidate who is bound to lose.

The dry organization held Magill was certain to lose and that votes turned to him would only swell the wet Brennan's chances of winning.

Smith was the second dry to get the league's endorsement in two days.

Senator Wills, republican, Ohio, was the first. The league advised Ohioans to scratch the democrat opponent, former Senator Alton Pomeroy, and the democratic candidate for lieutenant governor.

It would not surprise politicians here if Wheeler's next blast was against James Wadsworth of New York. The league deems him a backslider from the dries and favors Frank W. Christian, independent republican dry for the U. S. senate.

The league expresses itself as confident of net dry gains in so far as prohibition is an issue in coming state elections.

UNIVERSITY STUDENT NOW 'FINDS HIMSELF'

Milwaukee, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Joseph A. Weiner, Northwestern university student, who disappeared mysteriously October 7, found himself here last night.

"I must be missing," the young man said, as he came into the central police station here.

A short time before he had gone into a downtown drug store and called the police station by telephone telling them of his predicament.

"How can I tell you my name if I can't remember it," he said to the desk sergeant, after having been asked regarding his name. The police sergeant suggested he take a taxi and come to the station. This he did and the mysterious disappearance was solved.

After being convinced the young man was none other than Joseph Weiner, police took him to Emergency hospital and communicated with relatives in Chicago. He is said to be the son of a wealthy Michigan City, Ind., merchant.

GEORGE BURNS NAMED THE MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

ANNOUNCED AT OFFICE OF BAN JOHNSON, AMERICAN LEAGUE PRESIDENT

BURNS WAS PRACTICALLY UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF WRITERS' COMMITTEE

Chicago, Oct. 14.—(UP)—George Burns, hard hitting first baseman of the Cleveland Indians was named the most valuable player in the American League, it was announced at the office of Ban Johnson, league president, here today. Burns was practically the unanimous choice of the baseball writers' committee, which balloted on the players. He received 63 out of a possible 64 votes.

Next on the list was Johnny Mostil, centerfielder of the Chicago White Sox who received 33 votes. One vote behind him was Herbert Pennock, New York Yankee pitcher.

Burns, who has played on half the teams in the American League during the past 13 years, had a batting average of .358; he drove in 114 runs and scored 97 himself during the past season. He topped his 1926 record by making the record number of two base hits, breaking the record of his manager, Tris Speaker. He hit 34 doubles, three triples and four home runs.

Other players receiving votes here were:

Rice, centerfielder, Washington, 18; Hellmann, rightfielder, Detroit, 16; Manush, centerfielder, Detroit, 16; Simmons, centerfielder, Philadelphia, 16; Grove, pitcher, Philadelphia, 12; Goslin, centerfielder, Washington, 9; Gehrig, first baseman, New York, 7; Lazzeri, second baseman, New York, 7; Falk, leftfielder, Chicago, 6; Fothergill of Detroit, 6; Melillo, second baseman, St. Louis, 6; Rice, rightfielder, St. Louis, 6; Bluege, third baseman, Washington, 5; Todd, first baseman, Boston, 5; Cochrane, catcher, Philadelphia, 4; Meusel, rightfielder, New York, 3; Rigney, shortstop, Boston, 3; Flagstead, rightfielder, Boston, 2; Gerber, shortstop, St. Louis, 2; Zachary, pitcher, St. Louis, 2; Jacobson, centerfielder, Boston, 1.

SEN. F. VIBERT SPEAKS ON AMENDMENT NO. 2

Gave Interesting Address to Chamber of Commerce and
Lions Club

GAVE SURVEY

Reforestation Necessary to Insure Supply of Timber in Minnesota

Senator Fred Vibert, of Cloquet, who for a number of years has studied forestry throughout the country and has become particularly interested in reforestation last night in a stirring address to members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Lions club at a joint session in the Chamber of Commerce rooms following a dinner told the members that Minnesota was heading for a treeless state with a huge delinquent tax list on lands unless an amendment was passed providing the government with power to enact laws encouraging reforestation and the setting of a fixed tax on these lands.

Senator Vibert's address was an appeal to the people of Crow Wing county to turn out 100 percent to the polls on November 2 and support Amendment Two which reads as follows:

"Laws may be enacted for the purpose of encouraging and promoting reforestation and reforestation of lands in this state, whether owned by private persons or the public, including the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years and a yield tax at or after the end of such term upon the timber and other products so grown, but the taxation of mineral deposits shall not be affected by this amendment."

"Forest taxation, up until a few years ago has meant rather the lifting of taxes than of levying them. Senator Vibert stated, "Our first forest tax laws were passed in the prairie regions providing for the exemption from taxes of land which would be utilized for the purpose of growing trees. Bounties and bonuses of all kinds were offered in order to encourage the growth of timber. These practices, of course, tended to decrease the public revenue, and most of them have fallen into disuse."

"Since these first attempts at improving the forest tax question, however a great deal of time has been spent studying it, and the new methods of forest taxation do not aim at decreasing the revenue, but at eventually increasing it by merely deferring the payment of a part of the taxes until the timber is cut.

"In order to revise our existing tax laws to encourage reforestation and reforestation we must first classify our land into agricultural land and land fitted only for the growing of trees. In the category of forest land should be included land which has agricultural value, but which will not be needed in agricultural development for some time to come, and which could be growing a good crop of timber during this time rather than standing idle.

"These forest lands, so classified, should then, if the owners agree to practice forestry principles on them, protect their forest from fire, insects, and diseases, and submit a management plan for the tract and that it be taxed the same as any other land. It should be given a bare land value, not including the value of the timber on it, or at least, not its full value, and a yield tax imposed on the crop of timber when it is cut. It is possible to work out a system for each locality to be applicable only in that locality by applying different tax rates.

"The original area of forest land in Minnesota was roughly 33,000,000 acres, of which over 20 million acres was in what we now call the forested area. About one eighth of this 20 million acres is now being farmed. By deducting what is now in farms, what will be needed for agriculture in the next sixty years, and about three million acres which will eventually be in national and state forests, there remains eight million acres of forest land, privately owned, on which forestry can be practiced with profit to the owner. This is a conservatively low figure, a great deal of leeway being given to the expansion of agriculture. A large percentage of this 8 million acres is at present lying idle, producing nothing.

"An economic survey carried on by the Minnesota Forest Service in ten townships in northern Minnesota furnishes some interesting results. The area included in the survey consisted of 215,680 acres. The area covered showed a total of $60,513.00 delinquent taxes on the books of 1925. The delinquent taxes in part of one county was 6.4 percent of the total valuation."

Speaking on the amendment, Senator Vibert stated that the amendment was only an enabling act and if adopted it will be necessary to formulate a forest tax law for the state.

"Last election this amendment in a slightly different form failed to pass," continued Senator Vibert, "it received 428,407 votes, whereas 434,576 votes would have passed it. This was not because of opposition to the Amendment, because there were only 143,977 votes cast against it. Rather, it was due to lack of interest in it, as is shown by the fact that 296,767 persons did not vote on it at all. These all counted as negative votes.

Senator Vibert cited the city of Cloquet as an example of what the lumber industry does for the people.

"This modern lumber industry furnishes some very interesting statistics. Information acquired from Europe and some of our eastern states, as well as experiments and cuttings on the Cloquet Forest Experiment Station and the Minnesota National Forest at Cass Lake, show that a fully stocked forest area placed on a sustained yield basis will produce a cord of certain kinds of timber per acre per year. The stumpage values range from $1 to $5 per cord.

"Labor costs, including the woods work, transportation and manufacture are as follows:
Per cord or 500 ft. saw mill..... $ 9
Per cord or 500 ft. box factory..... 12
Per cord or 500 ft. paper mill..... 21
Per cord or 500 ft. toothpicks, etc 30

Total.....$72
"This makes an average of $18 per cord. However under present conditions, a large percentage of the timber goes to the saw mills and box factories, so a fair average would be about $12.50.

"Cloquet uses annually 200 million feet of logs or 400,000 cords of timber. The payroll of these operations, including woods work and logging railroad, is $4,900,000.00 annually. This figure is more than the assessed valuation of the city, it being placed at $4,800,000.00. The population of the city is 8,000. One-half of this number is employed in the timber industry, including the woods work and logging railroad.

"To take care of this industry an area of 400,000 acres of 17 townships contiguous to the city of Cloquet could be made to furnish a perpetual supply if placed under forest management.

"Let us take the figure of 8,000,000 acres of forest land in Minnesota. If 400,000 acres could furnish a continuous supply of timber for Cloquet, there is room for 20 such centers of this industry in Minnesota. This area handled on a forestry basis, would eventually produce 8 million cords of timber or 4 billion feet annually and provide steady employment for between 80,000 and 100,000 people with an annual payroll in excess of $100,000,000. General Election, Nov. 2, 1926

Having been a student of political economy for the past 15 years, I feel that I am acquainted with the leading issues before the next legislature.

Am opposed to any legislation for a few at the expense of the majority.

The State of Minnesota owes the county approximately $17,000 on Mothers' pensions alone. Will support an appropriation to enable the State to pay this, also its portion toward the county nurse and county sanatorium.

Resident of this county 29 years; have held offices of town clerk, school chairman and treasurer, president of Farmers' Club; have successfully operated private business enterprises.

Dresses Which are Fashions Favorites

The season's new frocks have much beauty in both neck and sleeves. Both are more flattering than usual, and there is in the new mode not only becoming lines for every type, but becoming textures and colors. Dark frocks have gay collars adorning them, many with a touch of gold or silver embroidery.

The long string bow at the back neck, hanging oftentimes to the hem, gives a slenderizing effect and at the same time youthful. The high band collar, plain in the back, is also new and effective.

Sleeves that are ornate and full half way between the wrist and elbow, but plain at both, are also interesting and wearable by many types, especially if the waist line of the frock is untrimmed. Other sleeves are extremely wide, reminding one of the real dolman, and embroidery is frequently used for sleeve trimming.

We should like to show you these smart dresses in crepes, satins, and lustrous silks, in the beautiful new channel red, shades of green, navy and black.

Priced where you wish to pay $14.50, $18.50, $29.75 to $49.75

Tracked by the Police

Copyright, 1926, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"TRACKED BY THE POLICE," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

In France Jimmy Ford adopts a police puppy, names it Rin-Tin-Tin and smuggles it home. Murtagh, a crooked politician, covets Jimmy's sweetheart, Ruth Allen. Jimmy's father, a police lieutenant, is mysteriously murdered. Jimmy joins the force to avenge him. Jimmy has an able ally in Rinty, now full-grown. Murtagh, hating and fearing Jimmy, has him assigned to the deadline neighborhood of the Hudson Busters, a gang he secretly leads. Ambushed, Rinty and Jimmy fight a terrible battle with the gang. Jimmy is shot. Rinty summons aid. Thinking he is dying, Jimmy gives Rinty a message to his mother.

So Rinty was entrusted with the poignant, delicate mission; while with genuine relief at being himself freed of the usual police departmental obligation, which requires the closest of a wounded or dead officer's pals to bear the tragic news to his afflicted relatives, Officer Maherty secured the note into Rinty's collar. Jimmy, himself, gave the noble dog a final pat, a word of loving encouragement, and the short instruction: "Home, Rinty—take that to Mother!"

Though obviously reluctant to leave the side of his Master, with Rinty to get an order was to obey. He voluntarily nuzzled Jimmy in farewell, whinnied a little, then obediently loped off on his grand. Jimmy, then, was left in the gloomy interior of the ambulance; Maherty and the surgeon got in beside him, and the agonizing trip to the hospital bed of pain was begun forthwith.

In her little flat, as hallowed from the noises and alarms of the soot-choked city streets around her as are convent walls in the midst of war, Mrs. Ford bustled herself about the loving tasks of her happy, withal lonely, household. Ruth had stopped in for an affectionate chat, while on her morning marketing tour. Innocence. Light hearts. No clouds.

The shaggy giant remained on guard.

"Who's that at the door? I do believe it's Rinty scratching there. It is Rinty. Hear him whimper. Oh! Oh!" The Widow caught her breath in a swift presentiment of evil; stock still and white she stood, rigid and deathlike in her premonitory waiting, while Ruth quickly flung wide the door.

Rinty trotted in; not with hanging head or backward pait, nor yet with his usual good-natured bound. But rather with gravity and dignity in every noble line. He crossed directly to the Widow, and raising himself upon his hind legs, gently touched her hair once with his tongue, and then gazed unblinkingly full into her alarmed eyes with such deep sympathy and love and understanding and compassion, that the Widow could not help but feel more at ease.

"What is it, Rinty, old fellow," she coaxed. "Why have you come home? Where is Jimmy?"

Rinty's long muzzle, wagging downward peculiarly, called her attention, as he desired, to the white paper fastened to his collar. With trembling fingers she undid it; but while she felt aimlessly for her spectacles, Ruth quickly took the paper and read its brave message.

For a long, long moment after Ruth's fearful words ceased, there was a heavy silence, fraught with the fears that must ever be the portion of the womenfolk of men of action and daring—the womenfolk who wait at home, in fishing cottage, or miner's hut, or policeman's flat.

Through it, Rinty drew feelingly aside, and watched first at face, then the other; it was as if his big dog heart knew that this was a moment which called for delicacy, for non-intrusion.

Presently Mrs. Ford stepped to the doorway of the parlor and gazed in upon the portrait of her husband—her husband whose name was in glory graven upon that bronze tablet in Police Headquarters by which the City of New York commemorates the memory of those of her guardians who have given their lives in the performance of their duty. Gazed long and prayerfully, almost as if in a spiritual trance; Ruth and Rinty stood watching her, the while—scarcely breathing, each feeling the sanctity of this close communion between beloved ones, quick and dead. At last the gentle Widow said in a voice vibrant with self-sacrifice and exalted purpose:

"The same evil person—the same vile influence—that killed you, Jim, is persecuting your boy. You are so close to him, now. Your prayers count for more. Pray that this monster shall be felled out and exposed and punished. And pray that our boy shall not be taken now, that Ruth and I shall not be left alone. But God's holy will be done."

CHAPTER 8.

The good Widow Ford attributed it to her prayers, joined to those of her departed husband; Ruth girlishly said it was her love and her confidence that God did not intend to deprive them of the bright future they had planned together; Captain O'Brien and the cops of the Precinct said that it was undoubtedly due half to the lad's unquenchable thirst for vengeance against the Hudson Busters, and half to the pride he felt because the famous Commissioner himself had personally visited his hospital cot, and had pinned on him a sergeant's shield and a departmental medal for conspicuous bravery; the Hudson Busters, themselves, thought it was just plain bad luck—for them; while the doctors in the hospital attributed it to his marvelous pluck and constitution.

Whichever it was—to whomsoever or whatever the credit was due—Jimmy Ford, in the course of two lingering months, recovered from the would-be assassin's bullet. If Jimmy himself had been interviewed upon the matter, he would have laid the miracle directly to the graceful forepaws of the faithful pal of his heart. The shaggy, tireless giant who, by special dispensation of the police and hospital authorities, had remained constantly on guard at his bedside night and day, except for the brief intervals when he was taken out by Ruth for exercising through the first dangerous days, when Jimmy lay semi-conscious and the thread seemed on the point of snapping for all eternity, it was Rinty's large eyes that never closed, Rinty's tongue that gently laved the fevered wrists (when the nurse was not watching to avoid), Rinty's alert instinct, that seemed a subconscious sentinel between Jimmy's tortured body and the shadowy Borderland. In the less tense periods, when the crisis had been safely bridged, it was Rinty's quiet and good-humored attention that cheered Jimmy the greatest number of hours. Of course, when the Widow and Ruth were there, Jimmy's human concerns lay with them; and Rinty, not enviously but with that superb self-effacement that is part and parcel of a thoroughbred dog's quality, unobtrusively withdrew a little way, and from his haunches watched with gracious dignity, while his tail swished his unselfish pleasure upon the spick and span linoleum floor. But it was Rinty who was with Jimmy the majority of the tedious hours that he had to spend flat upon his back—and which would have been insufferably lonely, despite all the praise and the attentions, if it were not for the ever-present dog. Rinty slept beside that cot, and ate, and sat there. Such an arrangement was unheard of—and violated all the hygienic and sanitary canons of Hospital procedure. But it was arranged at Jimmy Ford's express request, and it helped Jimmy Ford to get well—which, according to the lenient Board of Health official, was "the main thing."

Then came the big day when Jimmy was driven home from the hospital personally by the Commissioner in that high official's luxurious private car, and was the recipient of a neighborhood celebration on Twenty-first Street the like of which old Chelsea had never seen before. Another full month elapsed before the lad's strength was sufficiently won back to make it advisable for him to return to duty. All this while, Rinty was on special leave, by grace of Captain O'Brien, and he strolled the streets those shortening autumnal days with Jimmy, while that young Master breathed back health in the out-of-doors. Rinty acted as a necessary guardian, too, for as Captain O'Brien said:

"Until you get your full strength back it wouldn't be safe for you to walk the streets without Rinty, because the Busters would find some way to pick a fight with you, and finish the job they tried to do that morning."

The Captain paused a moment, then watched Jimmy narrowly as he resumed: "You know, the Busters have been laying low, but word has come to me by the underground that they have sworn to get even with you for killing Black Mike and the Squeeze Kid." (To be continued.)

STOCKS PRICES SHOW BETTER TONE

New York, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Prices in the main body of stocks displayed a better tone today notwithstanding bad breaks in special issues like the Fertilizer shares, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Moon Motors and Electric Refrigerators.

Rails were strengthened by the development of urgent demand for the Van Sweringen issues, which was based on expectations of important developments in the Nickel Plate consolidation program.

Reports that a liberal offer was to be made to the Chesapeake & Ohio interests stimulated a sharp advance in the latter issue which was followed by substantial gains in Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette and the Eries. The market closed higher.

600.00 and make for permanent industry and taxable property not only at the manufacturing centers but also on the forest lands.

"It is very discouraging, however, for the farmer or timber owner who has a stand of very young trees, or who would like to plant some on idle or non-agricultural land, to pay taxes each year on the so-called timber which will probably bring no returns to him for at least 20 years. Why should he not want to cut it and put in something which will bring him money? Wheat and other farm crops are not taxed until after they are harvested. Why can we not look upon timber as a crop and tax timber lands the same as any other?"

"Several states have passed laws to remedy this situation. New York has already passed laws which tend to encourage reforestation on privately owned lands. They offer bonuses and exemptions but the results as a whole so far have not been entirely satisfactory. In April 1926, they passed a law authorizing the state commission to fix a valuation of land for a term of years (not exceeding forty) and a yield tax (not exceeding 8 percent) on the value of the forest products when served."

"Washington is submitting an amendment to the voters providing for separation of land and timber and providing for a yield tax."

Mr. Vibert also cited other states and reviewed the situation as it is now in Sweden.

Tourist Park

Carl J. Wright, park commissioner in charge of the tourist camp gave some very interesting figures on the tourist camp at Brainerd showing its increase in patronage since 1924. During the season of 1924 there were 2,200 cars which took advantage of the tourist camp, in 1925, 2,400 cars, while this year which was considered even slightly below the average for tourist trade there were 3,351 cars. A total of $1,415 was taken in in receipts. Permanent improvements are being done. Not one cent of the tax payer's money is spent in it. The time however has come when the tourist camp must be enlarged to meet the increased demand and this is what the camp committee are striving to do—secure additional land.

At the business session following Senator Vibert's address President R. Gould presided. He mentioned the passing away of A. L. Hoffman, long a member of the Board of Directors and chairman of the finance committee, and the members present stood for some minutes in silent tribute to the departed. On motion W. H. Gemmell, Henry I. Cohen, and A. G. Trommald, were named to draft suitable resolutions of condolence.

In conjunction with the secretary, Joseph Cibuzar and A. S. Peterson are to draft a resolution expressing appreciation to the N. P. railway for the page publicity given the Brainerd Lake Region in their July-August time table.

John H. Krekelberg was named on the committee to consider the camp meeting site proposition advanced by the Gospel Assembly.

A letter was read from the Brainerd Ladies band thanking them for the assistance extended in making possible the engagement of the full band at the State Fair.

The Lions club in a letter from their secretary I. C. Strout thanked the chamber for cooperation extended in endeavoring to secure the Lions district convention for Brainerd.

John A. Hoffbauer, chairman of the publicity and convention committee reported on valuable advertising for Brainerd and Crow Wing county gained in the book issued by the Minnesota State Dairymen's Association in which addresses and other matters regarding Brainerd and Crow Wing county was given wide prominence.

The Farm Journal, Merchants Supplement, of September this year under the heading "Prospering a Farm Community," published a three page article and pictures by Mrs. Vivian S. Elver, securing over a million copies distribution.

Matter for the article was secured from the committee, county agent, county officers, Rotary, Lions club, Brainerd Dispatch, and other sources.

President Gould thanked District Forest Ranger E. H. Rhodes for interesting Senator Vibert to address the gathering.

D. C. Gray mentioned Shrine and Tall Cedar day Saturday, October 16. On motion carried, merchants are asked to decorate early Saturday for both gatherings.

SCOUT TROOPS START SEASON

Troop No. 7 to Hold First Meeting This Fall Friday Night

DR. E. C. HERZOG IN CHARGE

Northeast Brainerd Boy Scouts Hold First Meeting Monday Night

Dr. E. C. Herzog, Scoutmaster of Knights of Columbus Troop No. 7, announces the first meeting for the fall for Friday night 7:30 o'clock in the Troop room in the Knights of Columbus hall. It will be remembered that Troop No. 7 was represented by a patrol at the fall round-up and took third place which goes to show that there is a real active gang in the troop and they do things. This winning patrol is already making plans for taking first place in the spring round-up next May and bringing the Black Hawk club trophy back to Brainerd from Aitkin. Every Scout registered with the troop will want to be there on time ready for a real successful winter's activities. Any boys who have become twelve years old during the summer and wish to join this troop should be there that night as the troop is to be limited to a membership of sixteen for several months and will naturally take the first ones to make up this membership.

N. E. Scout Troop

To all the Scouts and new twelve-year-olds in Northeast Brainerd, the news that Jim Templeton is to take the troop as scoutmaster will be most heartily accepted. Mr. Templeton has called the first meeting for Monday at 7:30 o'clock at the Northeast Congregational church. Here again the membership is to be limited to sixteen to start with. Mr. Templeton has stated that the first sixteen who show up with their fifty cents registration fee and if not already a Scout, ready to pass their tenderfoot test, will be registered in his troop. It is expected that a rush will be made to occupy these sixteen places in the troop so the boys are asked to save their pennies for registration, brush up on their tenderfoot work and be there sharp at 7:30 o'clock to start their winter's activities.

Tracked by the Police

Copyright, 1926, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"TRACKED BY THE POLICE," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

In France Jimmy Ford adopts a police puppy, names it Rin-Tin-Tin and smuggles it home. Murtagh, a crooked politician, covets Jimmy's sweetheart, Ruth Allen. Jimmy's father, a police lieutenant, is mysteriously murdered. Jimmy joins the Force to avenge him. Jimmy has an able ally in Rinty, now full grown. Murtagh, hating and fearing Jimmy, has him assigned to the dead-end neighborhood of the Hudson Busters, a gang he secretly leads. Ambushed, Rinty and Jimmy fight a terrible battle with the gang. Jimmy is shot. Rinty summons aid. Thinking he is dying, Jimmy gives Rinty a message to his mother—

So Rinty was entrusted with the poignant, delicate mission; while with genuine relief at being himself freed of the usual police departmental obligation, which requires the closest of a wounded or dead officer's pals to bear the tragic news to his afflicted relatives, Officer Flaherty secured the note into Rinty's collar. Jimmy, himself, gave the noble dog a final pat, a word of loving encouragement, and the short instruction: "Home, Rinty—take that to Mother!"

Though obviously reluctant to leave the side of his Master, with Rinty to get an order was to obey. He voluntarily nuzzled Jimmy in farewell, whinnied a little, then obediently loped off on his errand. Jimmy, then, was slid into the gloomy interior of the ambulance; Flaherty and the surgeon got in beside him, and the agonizing trip to the hospital bed of pain was begun forthwith.

In her little flat, as hallowed from the noises and alarms of the seething city streets around her as a convent walls in the midst of war, Mrs. Ford bustled herself about the loving tasks of her happy, withal lonely, household. Ruth had stopped in for an affectionate chat, while on her morning marketing tour. Innocence. Light hearts. No clouds.

The shaggy giant remained on guard.

"Who's that at the door? I do believe it's Rinty scratching there. It is Rinty. Hear him whimper. Oh! Oh!" The Widow caught her breath in a swift presentiment of evil; stock still and white she stood, rigid and deathlike in her premonitory waiting, while Ruth quickly flung wide the door.

Rinty trotted in; not with hanging head or backward gait, nor yet with his usual good-natured bound. But rather with gravity and dignity in every noble line. He crossed directly to the Widow, and raising himself upon his hind legs, gently touched her hair once with his tongue, and then gazed unblinkingly full into her alarmed eyes with such deep sympathy and love and understanding and compassion, that the Widow could not help but feel more at ease.

"What is it, Rinty, old fellow," she coaxed. "Why have you come home? Where is Jimmy?" Rinty's long muzzle, wagging downward peculiarly, called her attention, as he desired, to the white paper fastened to his collar. With trembling fingers she undid it; but while she felt aimlessly for the spectacles, Ruth quickly took the paper and read its brave message.

For a long, long moment after Ruth's fearful words ceased, there was a heavy silence, fraught with the fears that must ever be the portion of the womenfolk of her husband—her husband whose name was in glory graven upon that bronze tablet in Police Headquarters by which the City of New York commemorates the memory of those of her guardians who have given their lives in the performance of their duty. Gazed long and prayerfully, almost as if in a spirit of trance; Ruth and Rinty stood watching her, the while—scarcely breathing, each feeling the sanctity of this close communion between beloved ones, quick and dead. At last the little Widow said in a voice vibrant with self-sacrifice and exalted purpose:

"The same evil person—the same vile influence—that killed you, Jim, is persecuting our boy. You are so close to him, now. Your prayers count for more. Pray that this monster shall be found out and exposed and punished. And pray that our boy shall not be taken now, that Ruth and I shall not be left alone. But God's holy will be done."

CHAPTER 8.

The good Widow Ford attributed to her prayers, joined to those of her departed husband; Ruth girlishly said it was her love and her confidence that God did not intend to deprive them of the bright future they had planned together; Captain O'Brien and the cops of the Precinct said that it was undoubtedly due half to the lad's unquenchable thirst for vengeance against the Hudson Busters, and half to the pride he felt because the famous Commissioner himself had personally visited his hospital cot, and had pinned on him a sergeant's shield and a departmental medal for conspicuous bravery; the Hudson Busters, themselves, thought it was just plain bad luck—for them; while the doctors in the hospital attributed it to his marvelous pluck and constitution.

Whichever it was—to whomever or whatever the credit was due—Jimmy Ford, in the course of two lingering months, recovered from the would-be assassin's bullet. If Jimmy himself had been interviewed upon the matter, he would have laid the miracle directly to the graceful forepaws of the faithful pal of his heart. The shaggy, tireless giant who, by special dispensation of the police and hospital authorities, had remained constantly on guard at his bedside night and day, except for the brief intervals when he was taken out by Ruth for exercising. Through the dangerous days, when Jimmy lay semi-conscious and the Thread seemed on the point of snapping for all eternity, it was Rinty's large eyes that never closed, Rinty's tongue that gently laved the fevered wrists (when the nurse was not watching to scold), Rinty's alert instinct, that seemed a subconscious sentinel between Jimmy's tortured body and the shadowy Borderland. In the less tense periods, when the crisis had been safely bridged, it was Rinty's quiet and good-humored attention that cheered Jimmy the greatest number of hours. Of course, when the Widow and Ruth were there, Jimmy's human concerns lay with them; and Rinty, not enviously but with that superb self-effacement that is part and parcel of a thoroughbred dog's fealty, unobtrusively withdrew a little way, and from his haunches watched with gracious dignity, while his tail swished his unselfish pleasure and the spick and span linoleum floor. But it was Rinty who was with Jimmy the majority of the tedious hours that he had to spend flat upon his back—and which would have been insufferably lonely, despite all the praise and the attentions, if it were not for the ever-present dog. Rinty slept beside that cot, and ate, and sat there. Such an arrangement was unheard-of—and violated all the hygienic and sanitary canons of House of Commons. But it was arranged at Jimmy Ford's express request, and it helped Jimmy Ford to get well—which, according to the lenient Board of Health official, was "the main thing."

Then came the big day when Jimmy was driven home from the hospital personally by the Commissioner in that high official's luxurious private car, and was the recipient of a neighborhood celebration on Twenty-first Street the like of which old Chelsea had never seen before. Another full month elapsed before the lad's strength was sufficiently won back to make it advisable for him to return to duty. All this while, Rinty was on special leave, by grace of Captain O'Brien, and he strolled the streets through shortening autumnal days with Jimmy, while that young Master breathed back health in the out-of-doors. Rinty acted as a necessary guardian, too, for as Captain O'Brien said:

"Until you get your full strength back it wouldn't be safe for you to walk the streets without Rinty, because the Busters would find some way to pick a fight with you, and finish the job they tried to do that morning."

The Captain paused a moment, then watched Jimmy narrowly as he resumed: "You know, the Busters have been laying low, but word has come to me by the underground that they have sworn to get even with you for killing Black Mike and the Squeaky Kid."

STOCKS PRICES SHOW BETTER TONE

New York, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Prices in the main body of stocks displayed a better tone today notwithstanding bad breaks in special issues like the Fertilizer shares, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Moon Motors and Electric Refrigerators.

Rails were strengthened by the development of urgent demand for the Van Sweringen issues, which was based on expectations of important developments in the Nickel Plate consolidation program.

Reports that a liberal offer was to be made to the Chesapeake & Ohio interests stimulated a sharp advance in the latter issue which was followed by substantial gains in Nickel Plate, Pere Marquette and the Erie. The market closed higher.

000.00 and make for permanent industry and taxable property not only at the manufacturing centers but also on the forest lands.

"It is very discouraging, however, for the farmer or timber owner who has a stand of very young trees, or who would like to plant some on idle or non-agricultural land, to pay taxes each year on the so-called timber which will probably bring no returns to him for at least 20 years. Why should he not want to cut it and put in something which will bring him money? Wheat and other farm crops are not taxed until after they are harvested. Why can we not look upon timber as a crop and tax timber lands the same as any other?"

"Several states have passed laws to remedy this situation. New York has already passed laws which tend to encourage reforestation on privately owned lands. They offer bonuses and exemptions but the results as a whole so far have not been entirely satisfactory. In April 1926, they passed a law authorizing the state commission to fix a valuation of land for a term of years (not exceeding forty) and a yield tax (not exceeding 8 percent) on the value of the forest products when served.

"Washington is submitting an amendment to the voters providing for separation of land and timber and providing for a yield tax."

Mr. Vibert also cited other states and reviewed the situation as it is now in Sweden.
